

BIO

Ara Sargsyan

Ara Sargsyan is an ICC Certified Building Official, Professional Civil Engineer, LEED Accredited Professional and California Licensed General Contractor. He has 18 years of experience with city building departments and over 35 years in the construction industry. Currently he is an Assistant Deputy Superintendent of Building at the Los Angeles Department of Building and Safety. Mr. Sargsyan has worked as a Plan Check Engineer/Supervisor, Training Officer, District Office Manager, Zoning Engineer, and Chief of the Development Services Case Management. His professional experience also includes building code analysis, structural design, teaching civil engineering courses, and research related to the acoustical properties of building materials. A number of his research works in noise control and building construction have been published and some have been utilized as textbooks. Mr. Sargsyan is a graduate of the Yerevan Polytechnic University.