International Accreditation Service, Inc. Special Inspection Agency Accreditation

Clark County Department of Development Services is pleased to announce the approval of the International Accreditation Service (IAS) Inc., Special Inspection Program as a means for independent Special Inspection firms to meet Clark County requirements for listing as an approved Quality Assurance Agency. This conclusion is based on a comparison of the review and verification processes used by both Development Services and IAS to determine the suitability of an inspection agency. IAS is considered a Nationally Recognized Body as defined in the Building Administrative Code.

Clark County Department of Development Services – Building Division will accept an application from a special inspection agency based on their accreditation through the International Accreditation Service Inc. Their facility will have a special designation as a recognized agency as defined in the Building Administrative Code. Due to their accreditation, this special designation allows for the special inspection agency to be listed with application fees waived.

Special inspection agencies will be required to comply with approval and listing regulations specified locally. The regulations are published by Clark County Department of Development Services in the form of technical guidelines.

Clark County Department of Development Services looks forward to applications being accepted in this manner.
