

Help the International Code Council Past Presiding Officers Provide Training and Resources to the Future Leaders of our Profession

The 2015 The Future of Code Officials — Results and Recommendations from a Demographic Survey notes our profession will be in need of a number of new leaders in the foreseeable future to replace the 80 percent of current professionals who are planning on retiring in the next 15 years.

The Past Presiding Officers (PPOs) of the International Code Council (ICC) recognizes this critical need and the importance of encouraging and mentoring the young professionals that will become the next generation of code officials. This year, the PPOs are continuing their effort to provide training and resources for these future leaders in our profession to help prepare them for the challenges that lay ahead.

A Special Project by:

The PPOs are an organization of the past presidents and chairmen of ICC and its predecessor organizations, who, combined, represent more than 300 years of experience in code administration and leadership in code development activities. One of our current activities is to identify needed resources and to raise funds to support the education of new and emerging code officials. We hope this can be accomplished through training at the Annual Conference; programs for presentation at local Code Chapter Meetings; and offering scholarships that can be used to further the education of these young professionals in non-traditional educational areas for code officials. This may include courses in business, management, personnel training, and other skills aligned with their professional needs for the effective administration of codes and standards.

The PPOs will hold the Second Annual Ron Burton Annual Golf Outing fundraising event, in conjunction with the ICC Annual Meeting in Kansas City, MO. This event will include a number of sponsorship opportunities.

In addition, as a part of the Conference activities, the PPOs will host an education forum, Journey to Leadership in Code Administration, for emerging professionals to outline the skills and abilities they will need to become expert code professionals.

We need your help to make this project successful. Please consider contributing to support our efforts.
